Understand technology partner tiers

Understand the Technology Partner Program and how to view your current tier information.

Technology partner tiers allow customers to identify app developers who have consistently provided a good experience for HubSpot customers in the past. Tier is applied to the app developer, not the app, so all apps from the same creator will have the same tier.

The following technology partner tiers are available:

- Partner
- Rising
- Leading
- Premier

Customers will see your technology partner tier on your app listing pages and when they filter for tier in the HubSpot Marketplace.

Learn the full details of the program in the Technology Partner Program Guide, including detailed requirements and benefits of each tier.

Understand tier updates

Technology partner tier upgrades are evaluated quarterly on January 15, April 15, July 15, and October 15, based on the performance of the previous twelve months. Starting in 2027, tier downgrades will be evaluated semiannually, on January 15 and July 15.

The technology partner dashboard will be updated within twenty-four hours of evaluation. When a tier change occurs, you will be notified by email. If the information on your

HubSpot Developers

On the technology partner dashboard, you can view your current tier, what that tier means, and what is required to move to the next tier. The data on the performance dashboard updates daily.

In order to see the technology partner dashboard, you must:

- Be using developer tools in your HubSpot account, rather than a legacy developer account.
- Have at least one approved HubSpot Marketplace listing.
- Have an app listing that's been approved long enough for a tier to be evaluated.

Review technology partner status

- In your HubSpot account, navigate to Development.
- In the left sidebar menu, navigate to Technology Partner.
- On the dashboard, review the following information:
  - Your current tier.
  - Your overall progress toward the next tier.
  - Your performance on the customer value and influenced revenue goals that contribute to your tier.
  - When your performance data was last updated.
